Siemens - Pneumatic Control training

Join us for a two day class tentatively scheduled for August 25 & 26. 9:00 – 4:00pm

We are presenting pneumatics 101. This class is geared for technicians who need training on pneumatic control theory as well as in introduction to trouble shooting existing systems.

We will explain the purpose, operation, and calibration of basic controls in and around terminal units. If time provides we will begin the discussion on receiver controllers, they will not be a focus of this class.

Price is subject to the number of students enrolled.

We anticipate charging $300.00 per student for both days.
